The AEA Foundation for Teaching & Learning was created in 1997 to advance education in Arizona. It started with only $3,000 designated for student scholarships. Today, the Foundation has generated over a $1,200,000 in income and has awarded more than $980,000 in grants throughout Arizona.
The AEA Foundation for Teaching & Learning is proud to offer a variety of program funds dedicated to developing the teaching profession; supporting student achievement; encouraging appreciation for the arts; enriching classroom academics; developing professional leadership; and inspiring innovation in learning. There are six funds in which individuals can contribute.

❤️ The Mary Kay Haviland Angel Fund offers direct assistance to a student with academic or personal needs.

❤️ The AEA Foundation Fund provides scholarships to teachers who pursue National Board Certification (NBC), the highest professional achievement in teaching.

❤️ The Sayler Fine Arts Grant is directed to under-served children to develop an appreciation of fine arts and to enrich the lives of children by seeking ways to support student efforts in music, drama, dance and art.

❤️ The Professional Development Fund offers funding for educators to pursue professional development opportunities that facilitates their professional leadership or improves an individual’s craft.

❤️ The Nell Wilcoxon/Future Educator Scholarship is awarded to AEA members or their families who wish to pursue education degrees and demonstrate financial need and academic promise.

❤️ The LIFT and Promise Grants fund classroom projects aimed at improving student achievement. LIFT (Learning Improvement through Faculty Teams) grants provide up to $3,000 for AEA-member projects that involve collaboration among school faculty. Promise Grants, named after the Arizona Education Association’s mission statement, Keeping the Promise of Quality Public Education, are designated for small classroom projects.
